3-School Boards Decide Money Is Answer To Sputnik

Trustees and officials of the three Monterey Peninsula public school systems met last night in Monterey to discuss the studies their committees have made in deference to public sputnikitis.

Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove presented separate reports with remarkably similar findings: the curricula and methods are satisfactory; teachers can be kept up to scratch with "in-service training" (panel discussions and visiting experts); more instructional materials and visual aides would help the students, and classes should not exceed a maximum of 25; guidance is desirable so brighter kids can be routed out and their work "accelerated."

All that is needed to insure these improvements is money, and the way to money is public interest and co-operation. But all the public does is criticize and refuse to vote bonds and taxes.

The group felt it had completed its work as a study committee, but decided to meet again, date to be set later, to see if the three school systems can co-operate on teacher in-service training.

Joe Walsh, Grant Fletcher Candidates For Vacancy On Carmel School Board

Planners Complete Tree Policy, Still In Sign Quandary

A "good" record should be kept of all trees planted and removed on city property. Planning Commissioner Hugh Smith advised yesterday afternoon at the regular session of the Planning Commission. This record would guarantee that "there would be as many trees as there are now." To encourage the city tree planting program, Mr. Smith stated he had found seedling pines may be purchased from the State Division of Forestry for seven dollars per thousand trees. Following Street Commissioner William Askew's suggestion of planting these seedlings in five gallon cans until they are ready for replanting on city property would mean that the pines "would be more likely to survive," after public planting, Mr. Smith added.

These recommendations will be added in a letter, written by Mr. Smith, to the city tree planting policy report which the planning commission is sending to the council. (Continued on Page Twelve)

Two Carmel Valley residents announced, yesterday, that they will run for Carmel Unified School District Board in the May election, Dr. Grant Fletcher and Joe Walsh. Mr. Walsh told the Pine Cone that he will file his nomination papers today. Dr. Fletcher said he will be a candidate only if the incumbent, Glenn Leidig, does not run for re-election.

Mrs. Elise Beaton, Carmel High Teacher, To Retire In June

Mrs. Elise Beaton is retiring at the end of this school year from the faculty of Carmel High School where she has taught Latin and French for the past 12 years. Mrs. Beaton joined the teaching staff of Carmel High when it opened, coming from Monterey High School where she had been head counselor for girls as well as language instructor. Speaking of her 28 years of teaching on the Monterey Peninsula, Mrs. Beaton, in her letter of resignation to the Carmel Unified School Board on Tuesday evening, said,

"They have been happy ones and I am grateful to have had a part in the education of so many fine, young people."

During her years at Carmel High, Mrs. Beaton instituted the authentic Latin Club Roman banquet. Several years ago this annual student event was featured in an issue of Life magazine.

Mrs. Beaton graduated cum laude from Northwestern University and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She began her teaching career in California at the Hillside School in Berkeley, moving after a year to Berkeley High School, where she was instructor in History and Languages for another year. (Continued on Page Twelve)

"I would not oppose an incumbent. The board has done a remarkable job."

There will be one vacancy, created by expiration of Glenn Leidig's term. Mr. Leidig has not announced if he will run again and could not be reached because he is away on Naval Reserve training.

Dr. Fletcher, his wife Virginia, and sons: Christopher, eight years old, Stephen, six, Michael, five, and Jeffrey, four, have lived in Carmel Valley for three years. Christopher and Stephen go to Tularcitos School, and Michael will be a candidate for kindergarten next fall.

Grant Fletcher was born in San Francisco in 1922, attended elementary school there, high school in Sonoma, took his pre-medical training at the University of California at Berkeley, and received his M. D. from Stanford in 1946. After two years in the armed services, he practiced medicine in Sonoma for four years, then took three years' training at Mayo Clinic, specializing in anesthesiology. He now is an anesthesiologist for both hospitals on the Peninsula.

Interested in Valley and school affairs, Dr. Fletcher is a member of the board of directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, belongs to the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club, is secretary of the curricula committee of the Tularcitos school, and, (Continued on Page Twelve)

24 Carmel Students Win Honors At Science Fair

Twelve students at Carmel High School and twelve students from Sunset received award ribbons for their outstanding work in science at the recent Third Annual Science Fair held at the U. S. Naval Post Graduate School, Monterey, last week end. As a result of this judging some of these students will be participating in the San Francisco Science Fair to be held at the California Academy of Sciences during the week of April 16.

Among the interesting problems undertaken by these students were: studies of regenerating flatworms, fungus plants that feed on round worms, practical navigation, organic fertilizers, telescopes, and streamlining models.

Approximately 2000 visitors viewed the exhibition and were enthusiastic in their praises of the young scientists.

A county wide committee of teachers and scientists working under the chairmanship of Miss Evelyn Sharp were responsible for the splendid organization of this event.

Carmel High School first prize winners were: Bosworth Williams, Soils and Gown Cypress Trees; Joanne Zellhoefer, Dan Richardson, An Analysis of the Trail of an Isopod; Rodney Phillips, Predaceous Fungi and Their Roundworm Trapping.

Second prize: Todd Wiekhorst, The Planaria; Robin Wilstach, Vala Kastor, Genetic Characters in Drosophila; Richard Tetley, Bill Doolittle, Mechanical Equivalent of Heat.

Third prize: Steven Gann, Practical Navigation; Biology II Class, An Analysis of Our Experimental Data of the Effect of Cutting on Budding Planaria.

Carmel High School honorable mention: Annabelle Herbert, Oak Gall Insects; Gary Arthur Clay, Weather Predicting.

Sunset's science enthusiasts displayed their interests at the Monterey County Science Fair.

Two seventh grade Sunset girls, Candy Knapp and Lesley Strosnider, competing in the Biological Science Division for groups of students ranging in age from 11 to 18 years, placed second with (Continued on Page Twelve)

CARMEL HI TRACK SQUAD AT KING CITY SATURDAY

Coach Fred Rainer takes his power-packed Padre track team to King City this Saturday afternoon to engage the defending champion Mustangs in a dual meet which could decide the CCAL B-division team championship. The one o'clock meet at the King City High School oval matches Carmel's superior field event and middle distance runners against the swift sprinters, clever hurdlers, strong milers of the Mustangs. On paper, the meet is so close that one or two points could be the deciding margin. Both squads have engaged in one practice meet, Carmel outscoring Monterey and Pacific Grove in an informal three-way meet at the Monterey Peninsula College and King City dropping a decision to the strong Salinas Cowboys in a dual meet at Salinas. The Mustangs scored 43 points against Salinas and this indicates that Coach Roland Dickey has some exceptional material under his wing at the Mustang campus. Big point-makers for the King City squad are Larry Homen, a 10.1 sprinter who won both the 100 and 220 in the Salinas meet; Frank Baker, CCAL 440 champion who lengthened out and won the 880 against Salinas; and Pat Curran, a 4:38 miler who appears to be tops in the B-division.

Carmel's top scorer is most likely to be a former King City star, Ted Smith, who could pick up blue ribbons in the pole-vault, broad-jump, and low hurdles and also run the anchor lap in the relay. Ted is capable of 13-feet in the pole-vault, is flirting with 22-feet in the broad-jump, and can clip the 180-yard low hurdles in 20 seconds. Mike Raggett and Alf Anderson give the Padres good strength in the 880 and 440 events while Pete Hanson and Frank Wallace will offer a serious threat to King City's Pat Curran in the mile. Craig Smith adds depth to the Padre 440 entry while Art Wilkerson and Bill Kearney are capable of picking up points in the 880. Tony Bingham is Carmel's lone sprint threat but he has the speed to threaten the brilliant Larry Homen. Big question mark and probably the deciding event of the meet is the 220-yard high hurdles where Carmel's Bob Forbes and Phil Durbrow climb the high sticks against King City's Ames and Garcia.

Phil White and Bob Forbes could help give Carmel a sweep of the pole-vault and they could receive additional help from Phil Durbrow, an 11-foot vaulter. Dave Vincent, Bill Hicks, Jeff Smith, Russ Wise, Ron Leidig, and Pat Harney figure to pick up valuable points in the field events and the Carmel relay team of Mike Raggett, Ted Smith, Tony Bingham, and Alf Anderson may have to make a winning performance for the Padres to win the meet.

Carmel's lightweight tracksters will be back in their own league against the King City limiteds and this should also be a close meet. The Carmel lights are paced by Tom Collins, a strong hurdle prospect and a fast-improving high-jumper. Joey Foster and Nick Vertin are the only other veterans back from last year's lightweight squad. Foster runs the 660 and 1320 while Vertin is a field event man. Coach Rainer expects to mark up other lightweight points with Pat Boyle, Fred Bucher, Doyle Clayton, Bill Coleman, Jaime Colome, Mike Dunham, David Farr, Frank Mayo, Joe Zoellin, and Leonard Wolff.

PADRE BASEBALL TEAMS HOST GILROY FRIDAY

If Old Jupe Pluvius cooperates and lets Old Sol take over for the day, Carmel High's varsity and junior-varsity baseball teams will host the Gilroy High squads in a pair of league games this Friday afternoon at 3:45. The junior-varsity game is slated for Bardarson Field while the varsity tilt will be played on the new diamond. Carmel's league games with San Lorenzo and Live Oak have been washed out so this Friday's joust with Gilroy will be the league-opener for the Padres. The local preps managed to get in a six-inning tilt with Palma High (Salinas) and clipped the Chieftains, 12 to 5, as Tim O'Shea, Cim Conway, and Bud Conroy gave up five hits in dividing the pitching chores. Fred Nelson, Carmel's 220-pound first-baseman unloaded the first grand slam home run in the history of Carmel's new diamond to provide the big blast in the Padre attack.

Gilroy has a veteran squad returning this season, losing only two players from last year's second-place team. In Phil Reyes, a 230-pound pitcher, the Mustangs have a fireballer with three year's experience who rates as the top pitcher in the B-division of the CCAL. Tim O'Shea, unpredictable lefthander who runs the gamut from a scatterarm to a poised professional, will toe the slab for the Padres and off his top performance could win the duel from the rugged Reyes.

The rest of Carmel's opening lineup will be Joe Mason, catcher; Fred Nelson, first-base; Andy Gray, second-base; Walt Helm, third-base; Ron Faia, shortstop; Dale Dawson, left-field; Neil Giarratana, center-field; and Mal Burdis, right-field. The Padre utility unit which figures to press the

In 1931 he and his family went to Europe, living in Paris where Dr. Morgan studied and practiced for two years. Upon returning to the United States his family lived in Carmel for a year while Dr. Morgan was re-establishing his practice in San Francisco.

Dr. Morgan was elected president of the California Osteopathic Association after a number of years on the Board of Trustees.

The Morgan family has been living for many years in Piedmont where their son and daughter attended school before going on to college. Dr. Thos. L. Morgan Jr. has now taken over the office and practice of his father in San Francisco.

Stuart Mitchell Lists Retrenchments If Bonds, Tax Fail

Stuart Mitchell, superintendent of Carmel Unified School District, at the request of the Citizens' Committee, has prepared the following statement which has been approved by the Board of Trustees.

Should the over-ride tax-election fail, the Board would be asked to decide which of the following program and operational adjustments would be made, and to what degree. The high school schedule of classes would have to be changed from a seven period to a five period day of four solids and physical education. Small enrollment classes in the high school would have to be eliminated, such as science problems, world history, auto mechanics, remedial reading, geography and world affairs, world literature, speech, advanced language classes, Latin and German, dramatics, home economics, and possibly others.

Throughout the district, there would be, an increase in many cases, to almost double present class size. Special rooms and buildings would have to be converted into classrooms, for instance: all cafeterias (this would probably mean discontinuance of the hot lunch program.) Two multi-use rooms are already being used as classrooms but might be divided to include more rooms. Stages at high school and Sunset auditorium would have to be converted into classrooms as well as the music building at the high school, and possibly the gymnasium and libraries at both the High School and Sunset.

The curtailment or discontinuance of other vital parts of the program might be necessary with the failure of the bond and over-ride tax; such as student transportation, athletic program, counseling services, coaching athletics, student body activities, care and improvement of grounds, swimming pool, adult education classes, maintenance, coordinator, instructional supplies and equipment, increase or create fees for recreational use of school facilities.

In addition to the above, there may be other adjustments necessary. The best interests of students in view of the amount of financial limitation will be the general criterion of decision.

TWO AMBULANCE CALLS

The Red Cross ambulance, operated by Carmel Fire Department, answered two calls early in the week. On Sunday they took Barbara Neumayer, Camino Real and Eleventh Streets, to the Peninsula Community Hospital after she had been injured in an accident. Monday Agnes Stith, Fifth and Junipero Streets, was taken to the same hospital after she fell out of her car at Seventh and Mission Streets.

March 15, 1958.

Carmel City Council,
City Hall, Carmel,
Gentlemen,

The old saying about "laboring mightily and coming forth with a mouse" certainly applies to the two year effort to get some planting done on Junipero Street.

To summarize briefly, just after the April 1956 election a Council Committee was appointed to meet with a Planning Commission Committee for the purpose of bringing in recommendations for landscaping on Junipero Street from Ocean Avenue to Third Avenue. This Committee met, made recommendations which were approved by the Planning Commission, but for reasons known best to Street Commissioner Buffington, the recommendations were never brought to the Council. The report is of record in the Planning Commission minutes of July 25, 1956.

Following a year with nothing accomplished, and as a result of repeated requests by a couple of interested property owners, another Committee was appointed, but this time the scope was narrowed down to the block from 5th to 6th, actually about one half a block since the northerly half of this block is already planted. This committee met in January, with much publicity and written notices to property owners. Result, recommendation for the planting of three trees.

Last Monday, men and equipment rolled up to 6th and Junipero and the program got under way, by now whittled down to ONE tree, located very close to the intersections, seems to be no part of an overall plan, and, all alone, constitutes a hazard, the rock

Chorale-Cantata At Wayfarer Service Sunday

A seldom-performed chorale-cantata by Max Reger will be presented by the Chapel Singers at the Church of the Wayfarer on Sunday morning at 9:30 and 11:00 o'clock. It is O, Sacred Head, which presents the familiar musical theme, used by J. S. Bach and others, in ten different arrangements for instruments, choir, soloists, and quartet. The performance will be under the direction of John W. Farr with Connell K. Carruth at the organ.

The soloists and members of the quartet include: Mary Tomfohrde, soprano; Mary Crawford, alto; Herbert L. Myers, tenor; and David Schoenbrod, baritone. Helen Shutes, violin, and Lloyd Clapper, oboe, will play.

This musical presentation will be a part of the Palm Sunday services which will be conducted by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray and will also feature the choir in Hosanna to the Son of David by Praetorius and Williams' Rejoice and Give Thanks.

work around the planting space was knocked apart twice in the first week. It almost seems an attempt to discourage or discredit the idea of center planting.

Many years ago, there was a big controversy over the center planting on Ocean Avenue, tree lovers versus businessmen. The trees won out, and there is no more beautiful business street in the state today than Ocean Avenue. Junipero could be a second such street, but not at the rate of one tree in two years. We urge you to take prompt and positive action on this matter.

Respectfully yours,
J. R. Belvail,
Francis Whitaker.

Music On The Peninsula

By MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Louis Fragos and Roslyn Franz gave the first of two joint violin and piano recitals at the Woman's Club Sunday to an audience that, if not large, was appreciative and responsive and perhaps mostly representative of those interested in the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra. Four Sonatas of Baroque and near Baroque period of Handel, Corelli, Haydn, Veracini, and a Fantasia by Vivaldi-Respighi formed a full program, demanding in its twenty-one movements an ensemble that usually requires much practise together.

Since I heard him last at the Stevenson School, Fragos has developed a livelier technique and general facility which gave him opportunity to express more fully, as he is regaining his status which he had in Europe as concert artist before coming to America. Pleasing the audience throughout, he was particularly effective in the Fantasia, played mostly away from the score which always makes for more spontaneous renderings. As for Roslyn Franz, we know her sterling capacity for tackling any kind of music, though sometimes her digital strength and leading tempo overpowered the violin, though her understanding of each composition was comprehensive and brilliant throughout, and when the top of the piano was finally lowered, the balance necessary in all sonatas for instruments of equal status was there. Only the Handel was written for violin with piano accompaniment, a quite different intention. We are grateful to these two musicians for affording us a hearing of less known chamber works and look forward to next Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the Women's Club, when Sonatas by Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert and Schumann will complete a rarely comprehensive offering that should be heard.

After the Symphony rehearsal Sunday evening, Gregory Millar left for Pittsburgh to be guest conductor of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra and attend the American Symphony League Conductors' Workshop there for two weeks. No rehearsal will be held next Monday, but Millar will return for the following rehearsal in preparation of the final pair of concerts of this season, when the Bartok violin concerto will be played by Anahid Ajemian, a young and brilliant violinist of Armenian background. Millar has also been requested to guest-conduct in Vancouver as well as sometime this year in Athens, Greece.

GERTRUDE WALL ART SHOW, FULKERSON PROGRAM AT TOWN HOUSE

The April art exhibit at Carmel Foundation Town House will open on Tuesday afternoon with a tea introducing a group of paintings by Gertrude R. Wall, an artist known to many Carmel people; although she now makes her home in Montara, near San Francisco.

A native of Ohio, Mrs. Wall was educated at Denison University and Oberlin College, Ohio; Chicago Academy of Fine Arts; and the Herron Art Institute of Indianapolis. She also studied at the University of California and the William Chase School of Painting in Carmel.

Her marriage to James A. Wall, an English potter, developed her interest in ceramics and together they opened a pottery studio in Berkeley, where Mrs. Wall also taught in the California School of Fine Arts and later in the University of California Extension Division. Although her interests have been chiefly in ceramics and painting, Mrs. Wall's talents have also found expression in wood-carving, sculpture and block-printing. In 1939, while spending a year in Hawaii teaching pottery-making, she made an unusual series of block-prints of tropical flowers which were exhibited in 1945 at the de Young Museum in San Francisco. Her work has been shown in many galleries in New York, San Francisco and other cities.

Mrs. Wall's years in Carmel include a period beginning in 1933 when she was associated with the late De Neale Morgan in the Carmel Pottery Shop in the basement of the Post Office building which at that time was on Dolores Street, near Seventh Avenue.

The tea on Tuesday will be from 3:00 to 4:00 o'clock and all interested persons are invited to meet

Mrs. Wall.

On Wednesday there will be a program of music by Charles and Jean Fulkerson. Mr. Fulkerson, who teaches at Humboldt State College in Arcata, California, is a pianist and Mrs. Fulkerson, the daughter of Mrs. R. E. Crouch of Carmel, plays the cello. Both are well known in Carmel but, traveling and studying in Europe during 1955-1957, they have missed participating in the last two Bach Festivals.

Morgan's River Line Opens Friday At Players Circle

The Golden Bough Circle Players, under the direction of Charlotte Perry, will present Charles Morgan's drama, The River Line, at the Circle Theatre Friday evening, the first of six weekend performances.

Charles Morgan is the author of The Fountain and Sparkenbroke. The River Line first appeared as a novel, but, "the present play," wrote Morgan, "is far from being an adaptation or dramatization of my novel of the same name. Rather was the novel, in effect, a study for the play."

The plot is laid in Occupied France, 1943, where three British and one American officer, fugitives from the Nazis, are secreted by a young Frenchwoman Marie Chas-saigne (played by Genevieve Armanasco), member of the escape organization known as The River Line. The officers are played by Hilary Urwick, Howard Brunn Levinson, Gene Ross and Kit Jones. Marie's father is portrayed by Bertrand d'Avenas.

In post-war England where the aftermath of the play is set, the part of Mrs. Muriven is taken by Florence Venn, with Barbara Burdick cast as Valerie Barton. Production staff include Ruth Allan, technical director; Erroll Allan, stage manager; music, Melodi Brien; photography, Ruth Velis-saratos; hairstyling, Henry Hair-stylist.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

A real need for a book on driftwood has been answered by a new one written by Florence Schaffer and entitled A B C of Driftwood. Most of the questions we get are on methods, and this book has a paragraph or two on the various methods for treating driftwood after it has dried sufficiently to be handled. Most of the book is concerned with the arrangements to be made combining driftwood with other materials. Some driftwood is also used in the Encyclopedia of Flower Arrangement by John Conway, which is another addition to our collection of books on flower arrangements.

The editors of Life have once again produced a beautiful book in their recently published America's Arts and Skills. It is a large book filled with color photographs which cover all the arts of America from the primitive work of the early colonists to the intricate internal systems of today's IBM machines.

Last week we mentioned a book in which a woman was cured of arthritis by psychotherapy. This week we have another in the same vein, except that this time the disease is asthma, but still they are different, and they may prove very helpful to a great many people. This one is entitled My Inward Journey and it was written by Lorraine Picker.

Max Miller, who wrote I Cover the Waterfront so many years ago, has recently collected for publication a group of his personal reminiscences under the title Shinny on Your Own Side. Many of them were first published in the New Yorker magazine and you have read them there, but here they are all together in a book which you will enjoy.

Dean Acheson delivered a series of lectures at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy of Tufts University, and these lectures were embodied in a book which was published under the title Power and Diplomacy. Whether or not you are an admirer of Mr. Acheson, you might well profit by reading this book on American foreign policy and where it is leading us.

Those of you who enjoyed reading Village School by a certain Miss Read, whose real name is Dora Jessie Saint, will no doubt welcome her latest book which is entitled Village Diary. This time she describes the village of Fairacre where the school is located, and the reader meets all the gentle English people and enters into their problems. This book is easy and exquisite as was Village School.

Many of you watched on television when Joyce Brothers won $64,000 on the program of the same name. Her new book entitled Ten Days to a Successful Memory may prepare the rest of us to re-

Magazine Features Carmel Valley's Wildflower Fete

Carmel Valley's annual Wildflower Festival is featured in the April issue of Mainliner, a monthly magazine published by United Air Lines for its patrons.

A color photograph of assorted wildflowers blooming in the valley south of the Monterey-Carmel area occupies the front cover. An accompanying article describes the festival, only one of its kind in the nation and scheduled for April 19 this year. Flowers such as Fairy Lantern, Indian Paint Brush, Checkerbloom and Johnny Jump-up are portrayed in color pictures by George T. C. Smith of Carmel Valley. The valley contains more than 1,000 types of blooms.

United distributes more than 145,000 souvenir copies of Mainliner each month. They are placed in seat pockets on every company flight.

Following is the story accompanying the pictures:

WILDFLOWER VALLEY

At Monterey Peninsula, they say, southern California meets northern California. Southern warmth and rugged northern beauty combine to create what natives call about the nicest place for living imaginable.

This blending of north and south is symbolized florally each spring in Carmel Valley where wildflowers from both regions gather in greater variety than any place else in America. Of some 10,000 wildflowers known in this country (6,000 native to California) more than 1,000 have been identified in Carmel Valley.

In gratitude for such bounty, Valley citizens each April gather for America's only wildflower festival. (This year's event, April 19.) Days before the festival, amateur botanists swarm the Valley's byways in search of its delicate treasures. Several specimens of each desired variety are marked for later picking. Then, on festival morning, the short-lived blossoms are rushed to the festival hall where, so concentrated, their variety is brightly manifest.

The festival is a modest country member at least our own names when confronted by sudden crises. Inattention is memory's bugaboo, she says. So sit up and pay attention to Ten Days to a Successful Memory by Joyce Brothers.

And remember to come again next week.

affair, fascinating to botanists and gardeners, yet with sufficient general interest to attract nearly 5,000 visitors last year. Organizer of the festival is Clyde Robin, one-time, maitre d'hotel, but at heart an ardent botanist and purveyor of wildflower seeds.

A botanist who has been a maitre d'hotel may seem unusual, but not at Monterey Peninsula, where your neighbor is likely to be a famous writer or cartoonist, your grocer an international chess champion, Swiss bell ringer or retired six-day bicycle rider. Human varieties also thrive in the temperate beauty of one of America's great vacationlands.

FISHERMAN'S WHARF, MONTEREY

Especially in the evening, when the bay darkens and curls coldly against the piles, and boats shift drowsily upon the tide, the mist of history rises from the sea. Beach fires burn, Indians squatting beside the flames. Red sea, now mussels poisonous, the smoke informs the people of the hills.

Cabrillo's galleon skims along the rim of the Pacific; Vizcaino sees hundreds of bears, and centuries slip by. Cypress and pine endure, while sea wolves swim and rocks receive the onslaught of the spray. Where Father Serra plants his cross of faith a village grows among the windswept trees.

Yankee ships drop anchor, and their flag flutters above the customs house. The wild battalion comes; beloved bandits hide; rain follows wind, and sunlight follows fog. The statue of a saint blesses the tide for fishermen from Portugal. The wharf fetches the orient for a western child.

Peace follows war; the errant child returns and walks the salty timbers, hungering. Now where the squid were cut and the nets spread, glittering jewelry and figurines are sold, and charcoal sketches of a dead movie star, as well as cotton candy. There is even some fishmongering.

Still fishermen abide, lusty and young, shouting obscenities to one another, and still purse seiners idle on the water. Still mustached rubbery sea lions splash among debris, and fish (a package for a quarter) is tossed to them. Hoarsely they bark their thanks, thinking, perhaps, that times were never better.

—JEAN SEWELL STANDISH.

COLOR

*The color of a tree or flower
Is that which it is throwing back
Into perception's outer track
From sunlight's white, voluminous shower.*

Is thus breath-taking to the view,
How beautiful must be the hue
Which is absorbed, and no one sees!*

Elizabeth Quimby A Charmer

One of Carmel's proudest grandfathers is J. P. Gilbert who has just returned from a first visit with his five-months-old granddaughter, Elizabeth Gilbert Quimby of Huntington, Long Island. He brought back glowing reports and photographs for Mrs. Gilbert, who was unable to go East at this time to meet their first grandchild, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Quimby (Cynthia Gilbert). The baby has been named after her mother's sister, Elizabeth Gilbert of Carmel and San Francisco. The pictures, which Mr. Gilbert is happily showing friends, prove that Miss Elizabeth Quimby is indeed a charmer of hearts and worthy of her grandparents' evident pride.

Audubon Helps India

The National Audubon Society has just received a cable from Dr. Telford H. Work, in India, that a severe epidemic necessitates his remaining there instead of coming to the United States to give his series of Audubon Screen Tours in April. Dr. Work, besides being a great naturalist, is one of the world's foremost epidemiologists.

He was due in Carmel for the fifth Screen Tour of the season on April 29 with his Monsoon Mosaic. Al Wool, of San Jose, also an Audubon lecturer, will present his film Ranch and Range instead. This picture is rated "superb" by the National Audubon Society.

Last Friday morning Mrs. Richard Lofton met her older daughter, Nancy, at San Francisco Airport when she returned from a five day trip East to be interviewed for entrance to Radcliffe College, Harvard University. Nancy, a junior at Carmel High School, hopes to enter Radcliffe this fall under the college's policy of accepting exceptional students before they have completed four years of high school. Besides being interviewed by two members of the Radcliffe staff, Nancy was shown Harvard by Richard Williams, in his sophomore year at Harvard, and by Ben and Marian Chaffey, all from Carmel. Ben is in second year medical school at Harvard and Marian is a senior at Radcliffe.

"Harvard is everything I expected," says Nancy, "with wonderful ivy-covered buildings."

Erica Franke Engaged

Mrs. Berthe Simpson today is announcing the engagement of her daughter Erica Franke to Robert Joyce Barton, son of Mrs. George Dunbaugh of Carmel.

Erica, an artist on the Monterey Peninsula, maintains a studio in the Carmel Craft center where the distinctive pictorial tiles she designs are displayed along with her paintings. She also creates sets for peninsula little theatre productions, and has won prizes for her outdoor murals used as Christmas decorations in Carmel. Monterey's Christmas angels, which adorn Alvarado Street during the Yule season, are also her work. She attended the Art Students League in New York City before spending several years in Europe, studying at the Academia di Belli Arti in Venice. Her father is Clinton Simpson of New York.

Her fiancé graduated from Phillips Academy in Andover, Massachusetts, before continuing his education at Stanford University. He recently returned from Germany where he was stationed with the Army at Frankfurt. He is at present living with his mother in Carmel. He and Erica plan to be married late in April.

Jim Rowe Back

James M. Rowe returned to his Ocean Avenue business, The Village Shoe Tree, this week. He has been putting up a courageous battle with illness for a number of weeks, but now looks hale and hearty, and clearly came off the victor over the ailments which hospitalized him for a time and later confined him to his Pebble Beach home. During his absence Mrs. Rowe, sons Don and Deen Rowe, and Village Shoe Tree staff members, Jack Smith and Gasper Cardinale kept Jim's business operating smoothly.

Dozens of friends and acquaintances have been visiting Jim's store all week to welcome him back, and to congratulate him on his return to health.

Elizabeth Tjader

Mrs. Elizabeth Tjader, 51, was pronounced dead on arrival at a Salinas hospital on Tuesday afternoon. She was found unconscious when the Red Cross ambulance operated by the Carmel Fire department, answered a call to her home on Lincoln Street between Ninth and Tenth Avenues shortly after noon. She was taken to a local hospital and later transferred to the Salinas hospital. Mrs. Tjader had been under medical care for the past five years.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. J. R. Hannay of Carmel.

Funeral services were this afternoon at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea with the Reverend David Hill officiating.

Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Polly AFS Foreign Student

A letter from Stephen Gallatti, director-general of the American Field Service, informed Polly Gann on Monday she had been chosen by the national office of the organization to represent Carmel High School as a foreign exchange student. Polly applied to go abroad under either the AFS summer or six months school programs. The country to which she will be sent and the length of time she will remain abroad is to be decided later by the central AFS office.

Polly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest K. Gann of Pebble Beach, and is a junior at Carmel High. She was one of four students nominated by the local AFS selection committee to apply to the national AFS office for a foreign exchange scholarship. Others chosen locally to represent American youth in foreign countries were Lucinda Lloyd, Michael Blanton and Sam Farr.

book. He puts the names of Carmel businesses on shops abroad which adds to the fun of the situations so humorously depicted.

Bill O'Malley and his wife, Ada, spend much of their time traveling and it is evident that many of the cartoons picture the O'Malleys' own predicaments abroad and that they have the healthy ability to laugh heartily at themselves.

Sport Notes —

PADRES ENTER MONTEREY
BASEBALL TOURNAMENT

Carmel High's varsity baseball squad will see action in the Monterey Easter Tournament next Monday, clashing with Salinas High in a 12:30 game at the Monterey Peninsula College diamond. If the Padres win their first game, they will play the winner of the Hollister-Monterey game on Tuesday, but if they lose to Salinas, they have to come right back on Monday to meet the loser of Monterey-Hollister in a 3:30 game. Carmel's three-man pitching staff of Tim O'Shea, Cim Conway, and Bud Conroy will get a real workout in this two-day tournament and the experience should tighten them for a long season ahead. Conway will open the action against the Cowboys, Conroy will take the mound in the second game, and Lefty O'Shea will do the honors in the third game.

Santa Cruz, rated by the experts as the best prep team in the area, is favored to win the tournament with Salinas and Watsonville offering a serious threat to the Cardinals. Since pitching is the big item in a two-day tourney, the Hollister Haybalers must be rated as a darkhorse contender for the title. Coach Bob Matson has a six-man pitching staff which compares favorably with any in the Coast Counties Athletic League and his all-veteran starting lineup is well-seasoned on tough competition. Dave Grow, Haybaler number one hurler, has averaged two strikeouts per inning in three games this season and has two one-hitters in his three trips to the mound.

as a member of the citizens' committee, is campaigning for the proposed bonds and over-ride tax for the Carmel School District.

Mrs. Fletcher is a member of the Camp Committee of the Girl Scouts.

"I have no fixed ideas of how it may be done, but I'm interested in seeing that the students have an opportunity for getting the best education," Dr. Fletcher commented.

Joe Walsh, a self-employed builder, has also lived in Carmel Valley for three years, coming here from Whittier with Mrs. Walsh and their two daughters, Dianne and Kickjo, who both attend Monterey High School. Mr. Walsh was born in Long Beach in 1917. He is seeking election because he feels, "Carmel Valley should have representation on the board."

their display illustrating "The Relative Merits of Organic Fertilizers."

Wayne Wickhorst placed second in the individual seventh and eighth grade Biological Science Division with his model "The Organs of the Human Digestive System."

In the Physical Science Individual Division for seventh and eighth grade students, Jon Raggett's Six Inch Reflecting Telescope was judged second best of ten outstanding exhibits. Earning a third in this division was Jeff McKenna with My Ham Transmitter. Other Sunset exhibitors and projects in the division included: Peggy Newton's Four Inch Refracting Telescope and Walt Prowell's The Measurement of Resistance to Water.

Among entrants ranging from sixth through twelfth grades on Physical Science were: Craig Neikirk, Chuck Casey and Ken Edward (7th graders) who won top honors with their Creating More Thrust. John Eagleton and Jim Brown were third with Streamlining. Dick Templeton, Harwood Nelson and Charles Konrad won honorable mention with Two Stage Rockets and Ralph Stean and Joe Sponsler with Atomic Reactor.

Craig Neikirk, Ken Edward and Chuck Casey were selected to represent Sunset at the California State Science Fair.

Science teachers Beatrice Wiegman, Neil Jensen and Fred Pitts concurred that the program afforded an excellent opportunity in problem solving, investigating, observing, experimenting and research.

cil. The report, prepared by Mr. Smith and Mrs. Douglas MacGregor was covered in last week's Pine Cone.

Chairman George Willcox appointed the same commissioners as last year to serve on the three basic planning commission committees; architectural matters, Hugh Gottfried and Fred Keeble; public improvements, Hugh Smith and Mrs. Douglas MacGregor; land use, Mrs. Florence Josselyn and Herbert Blanks.

Then planning commissioners endeavored to clarify the business district sign problem which has been plaguing them for several months. Completely bewildered by multiple occupancy sign footage they decided to return to signs at their study session on April 16 after Building Inspector Floyd Adams has given them a comprehensive report and history of signs in Carmel. This report, commissioners hope, will enable them to determine "what is a sign in Carmel," as phrased by Mr. Adams.

U.S.O. IN MONTEREY CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

During April everyone is invited to visit the Peninsula U.S.O. in Monterey as part of the national U.S.O. seventeenth birthday celebration. Supported largely by Community Chest funds, the U.S.O. maintains 267 clubs and lounges around the world where armed forces members may find a "something like home" atmosphere.

The Peninsula U.S.O. is open to the 30,000 servicemen in this area and is used by clubs and organizations for special events. Frank Adams is director. Monterey Peninsula Community Chest's contribution to the U.S.O. fund amounts to $5,000.

year before coming to the Monterey Peninsula. From 1930 to 1945 she taught in Monterey High School, then joined the staff of newly opened Carmel High. During summers, Mrs. Beaton obtained her master's degree from the University of California and became a member of Pi Lambda Theta, honorary women's education sorority. In 1937 she completed a course for foreign teachers of French at the Sorbonne standing third in the group.

A past president of the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, international honor society for women in education, Mrs. Beaton also served as State vice president and secretary of the society.

Speaking of her future plans, she says, "retirement is closing one door to open another", that of painting. Mrs. Beaton is an exhibiting member of the Carmel Art Association and plans to paint more when she stops teaching. This summer, she and her husband Matthew Beaton, who retired from his real estate and insurance business several years ago, will return for the third time to spend the summer at the former mining town of Bodi on the east side of the Sierra. Mrs. Beaton has a studio in Bodi, "a real ghost town where we are the only people except the caretaker."

"In the fall we shall come back to Carmel, our home for 20 years, and make further plans for travel if our wanderlust is not satisfied."

Mrs. Beaton has seven grandchildren ranging in age from 12 years to one year old. Six of them are the children of her daughter Mrs. Ivan Klohe, married to an air force major attending staff

In addition, there will be three scholarships for band instruments—comprising a two week course at the Arrowbear Summer Music Camp at Arrowbear, California. Any student not over 18 years of age or beyond a high school senior may enter. Any winner of previous Music Trades scholarships will not be eligible.
